AMERICA'S RESOURCES

WILDLIFE

CANADA GOOSE

(Branta canadensis)

Wedges of Geese passing overhead are as symbolic of spring as the first Robins. The musical "honking" of the V-shaped flocks is a very exciting sound. These black-necked, white-cheeked fellows are far from being the "silly Geese" that their barnyard brethren are. They would not survive long in the wild, if they were not quite intelligent.

Although some Canada Geese nest in parts of the United States, most of them pass the summer in Canada—some as far north as the Arctic circle. The nest is placed on a high spot of ground, or on a little island. Five to nine buffy-white eggs are laid on a bedding of down. The newly-hatched Goslings are buffy yellow.

Several races of Canada Geese are recognized—one, the Cackling Goose, which spends the winter in California, is almost as small as a Mallard Duck.

The Alamo is the "Shrine of Texas Liberty." In this venerable edifice in 1836 during the Texas struggle for independence, a handful of heroic Texans under the leadership of Bowie, Crockett and Travis, repulsed General Santa Anna and his large Mexican Army, but after a bitter struggle of eleven days, they all were massacred and their bodies burned.

THE UNITED STATES CAPITOL, set on a height overlooking the amphitheatre of the Potomac, is one of the largest and stateliest buildings in the world. It is 751 feet in length and 350 feet in width, covering three and a half acres. The statue of Freedom on the dome towers 307 feet above the esplanade. The cornerstone was laid by President Washington in 1793; the central building was finished in 1797; and the extensions were first occupied by Congress in 1857.

SCOTTISH RITE CATHEDRAL

This magnificent Gothic cathedral erected by the Indianapolis bodies of the Scottish Rite occupies half of an entire city block at North and Meridian Streets. It is highly ornamented with emblematic designs in cut stone and beautified with symbolical stained glass windows. Its majestic tower rises 212 feet and houses a carillon or "singing bells" one of the greatest in the world.

THE CANVASBACK

(Nyroca valisineria)

Canvasbacks riding the waves, their white backs flashing and rusty heads catching the sunlight are as handsome as any of the waterfowl. On the wing, heading into the wind, their long necks and long bills give them a slender look as if the wings were set far back.

In recent years, drought, drainage and other agencies have reduced the numbers of Canvasbacks so alarmingly that it has been a matter of concern to many people.

Although Canvasbacks are found throughout a large part of the United States during migration, and along both coasts in winter, they nest principally in the interior and western parts of North America, in prairie regions, from Alaska, Saskatchewan and western Manitoba south to Oregon, Nevada, northern New Mexico and Minnesota.

AMERICA'S WILDLIFE RESOURCES

RUFFED GROUSE

(Bonasa umbellus)

The Ruffed Grouse is about the size of a Bantam Rooster and is found in all woodlands of our northern states and in Canada from the Maritime Provinces to Alaska. In our eastern states it goes south to Georgia in the mountains.

The nest is a few dead leaves scraped together and may contain from eight to fourteen buffy eggs, sometimes with brown speckles. The little downy chicks can run about for food at once.

During the mating season, April and May, the male makes a curious drumming sound by rapidly beating his wings against the air as he stands erect on a log or stone.

The Grouse eats seeds, berries, buds and insects. It is a wild, shy bird, but thrives in the neighborhood of man if not too much disturbed.

This quaintly beautiful game-bird of the swampy thicket has mysterious ways that scientists are studying. It is now believed that one thing needed to attract Woodcock are dancing grounds, suitable clearings in the thickets where the male can perform his courting antics in the air. The female Woodcock carries the downy young from a place of danger, flying with them, one at a time, between her thighs. The Woodcock breeds in the northeastern United States and eastern Canada, and winters far enough south to find soft earth for its flexible probing bill. Woodcock diet is almost 100 percent angle-worms.

SIAMESE TWINS

No scenic feature of the Pike's Peak region has such world-wide fame as the Garden of the Gods. Here is a region where titanic forces have been at play. These rocks assume many grotesque shapes, and the impression gained is of the awful, the mighty, the weird, the supernatural, and is an impression never to be forgotten.

Colorado Springs, Colorado.
HEIGHT OF CLIFFS 1100 FEET.

THE CRAGS, SOUTH CHEYENNE CANON, COLORADO.

South Cheyenne Canon is admittedly one of the most beautiful spots adjacent to Colorado Springs. Here are miles of massive walls of richly colored granite rising from the murmuring stream almost perpendicular to the sky above. Their bold and rugged cliffs and pinnacles are split and broken by the never-ending battle with the elements. Of all the wonderful scenic attractions in Colorado, none excel South Cheyenne Canon in its combination of idyllic romance and magnificent scenery. Reached by street car, carriage or auto.

BANANA TREE SHOWING BUD AND FRUIT IN FLORIDA

4A-H1235

Dear Mike,
I saw some bananas
growing like this, only they weren't ripe. When they get ripe we are going to pick them and eat them. I also saw an orange tree and a grapefruit tree. The other day a flock of pelicans flew over. They looked funny with their
big bills and queer wings.
Later I'm going to write to you. I hope you'll write to me. Love Ellen.

I AM a bell.

Not an ordinary bell, you must concede, nor yet.

The type that rings out wild alarms.

'Twas I who, by the grace of God, proclaimed throughout the land

And to all the inhabitants thereof the precious right to live

As He decreed we should; to worship Him as the gift of reason

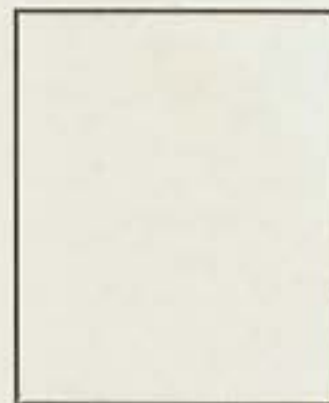

He endowed us with dictated; to freely and fearlessly speak

Our mind, undaunted by listening ears; to place

Nobility of character o'er that of birth; to live humbly,

Gallantly, graciously, but ever reverent of a beneficent God.

RESTORATION OF A SWAMP FOREST
OF THE COAL AGE

Ernest R. Graham Hall

Toward the end of Paleozoic time, some 300,000,000 years ago, the world's first great land flora reached its culmination in the vast swamp forests that furnished the material for our principal coal beds. These forests consisted entirely of flowerless plants. Gigantic horsetail rushes, clubmosses growing as forest trees, primitive conifers, and ferns and fern-like seed plants formed the mass of the vegetation of that time, which will be found more fully described and illustrated in the Museum's Geology Leaflet No. 14.

L5:--WINTER-TIME. WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY BY MOONLIGHT, LEXINGTON, VA.

WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY was founded originally in 1749. In 1776 its name was changed to Liberty Hall Academy and in 1798, it was formally adopted and endowed by George Washington, and by him authorized to bear his name as his gift to the new republic. At the close of the Civil War, the presidency of this institution was offered to Robert E. Lee. He served until his death in 1870, and subsequently the name was changed to Washington and Lee University. In the chapel in these grounds General Lee's remains and those of his family have been placed.
